

7 Interactive Front-End Project

Welcome to your first group project! This is an important step in your full-stack journey, as you will now use your newly acquired skills and knowledge to build a web application from scratch over the next two weeks. You will conceive and execute a design with your team that solves a real-world problem by integrating data received from multiple server-side API requests to create an interactive front-end project . Because you will be working collaboratively, you will learn agile development methodologies and implement feature and bug fixes using the Git branch workflow and pull requests.

Watch this video to learn more about your first group project: